Strategic Design Research Journal is collaborating with various institutions for developing design culture and fostering the cross-disciplinary potential of design research.

In this direction, the first number of the tenth volume was edited together with the UNESCO Chair in Anticipatory Systems and the Advanced Design Network, which organized the first international conference on Anticipation, held in Trento in 2015. Design as enabler of anticipatory systems: The MakeinProgress case study by Venanzio Arquilla and Annalisa Barbieri and Spimes and speculative design: Sustainable product futures today by Michael Stead were considered among the best works presented in the design section of the conference.

Design approaches in the contemporary scene: Structural essay on the relations between theory and practice by Gabriel Henrique Oliveira, Simone Souza Oliveira and Maria Bernadete Santos Teixeira, is related to a collaboration with the organization of the twelfth P&D, the Brazilian congress on design research and development.
